Revocation

[Open all \[#\]](#)

What is revocation?

It is where we revoke the authorisation of a firm or the practising certificate of an individual. This happens if we have not received a completed renewal application or the fees have not been paid.

It would also apply to the registration of a European or foreign lawyer.

In practical terms this means that a firm would need to close and an individual would be unable to practise.

Providing legal services when not authorised to do so could be a criminal offence. It may result in a law firm being intervened into or an individual being investigated.

Will regulated individuals receive formal notice before revocation takes place?

Yes, we attempt to contact all affected individuals before revocation.

It is important that contact details are kept up to date.

To find out how to change personal and professional details, go to [Managing my individual account \[https://upgrade.sra.org.uk/mysra/manage-account/individual-account/\]](https://upgrade.sra.org.uk/mysra/manage-account/individual-account/).

What happens if I need a practising certificate or registration?

You should submit an application immediately.

If you do not your practising certificate or registration may be revoked.

If I submit an application and make full payment within the timescales set out in your recent communication, will you still commence the revocation process?

No not if you submit the renewal application and make full payment within the relevant timescales.

All our regulated individuals have applied for their practising certificates/registration. Why have you contacted me about revocation?

We have not received your bulk renewal application.

You are required to pay your firm fee even if you are not applying for individual practising certificates.

Our firm does not generate turnover. Are we still required to submit an application?
